SCST Annual Conference 2025

The Society for Cardiac Science and Technology (SCST) is the professional body for those working in cardiac healthcare science.

This event is a pivotal gathering for professionals in the field of cardiac science, and brings together approximately 150 clinical staff and departmental managers from across the United Kingdom, fostering collaboration and the exchange of cutting-edge knowledge. The conference, formerly known as the SCST National Update Meeting, has evolved in scope and significance, prompting its rebranding to the SCST Annual Conference.

The conference features a comprehensive program designed to address various facets of cardiac science and professional development and continues to be an essential event for professionals dedicated to advancing cardiac science, offering opportunities for education, networking, and recognition within the community.

Programme Summary

The upcoming programme is currently under development and is set to offer a diverse range of sessions catering to professionals across the field. Attendees can expect an expanded selection of breakout rooms, likely covering key topics such as IQIPS/Quality, STP Equivalence, Career Development and Postgraduate Pathways, and Student-Focused Skills in Cardiac Physiology.

A larger oral abstracts and poster session is anticipated, providing more opportunities to showcase research and innovation. The popular ECG Championship will return, alongside sessions dedicated to Service Development and Reimbursement, and a Research-focused stream offering guidance on grant applications, abstract writing, and more.

Additional highlights are expected to include Cases & Traces, workshops on Leadership and Communication Skills, discussions on Innovative Practice, and insights into AI & Technological Advancement within the field. The event will also celebrate achievements through an Awards session.

As planning progresses, further details will be confirmed, ensuring a dynamic and engaging programme for all attendees.
